Police Announce Robbery Arrest

New Brunswick, N.J. Nov. 7, 2014 – The New Brunswick Police Department announced Friday that an arrest has been made in connection with a recent robbery in town.

A juvenile suspect was arrested on Thursday night and charged with one possession of stolen property and one count of robbery in relation to an incident that took place on Wednesday near the intersection of Neilson Street and Morris Street.

During the investigation, the suspect was found by police to be in possession of property taken from victims in two separate robbery incidents reported over the past month.

Police believe this incident to be related to other robberies and continue to investigate via a joint investigation between the New Brunswick Police Department detective bureau and detectives with the Rutgers University Police Department.

The suspect was also found to be in possession of a fake gun that matched the weapon description given by a victim involved in one of the robbery incidents.

The suspect was taken to the Middlesex County Detention Center.

Anyone with information about these incidents is urged to contact the New Brunswick Police Department Detective Bureau at (732) 745-5217.
